

Shaykh Ibrahim Osi-Efa

Lecturer and Researcher in Islamic Studies

Place of Birth and Residence: Liverpool, England

Educational Background and Training

Shaykh Ibrahim Osi-Efa was born and raised in Liverpool, England, where he developed a deep commitment to Islamic learning and scholarship. He was blessed with the opportunity to study several classical Islamic disciplines at the hands of esteemed holders of the Islamic tradition, including Murābit al-Ḥājj, Habib Umar bin Hafiz, and Shaykh Hassān al-Hindi. His initial studies spanned three years in Syria and Mauritania, during which he acquired foundational knowledge in Islamic sciences under qualified instructors.

Advanced Studies in Hadramaut

Shaykh Ibrahim was subsequently honored to spend over six years in the illuminated city of Tarim, located in Hadramaut, Yemen; a center renowned for Islamic scholarship and spiritual learning. During this extended period of intensive study, he benefited from the instruction of highly qualified teachers including Habib Kazim al-Saqqaf, Habib Ali al-Jifri, and Shaykh Umar Husayn al-Khatib. This comprehensive training provided him with mastery of classical Islamic disciplines including Islamic jurisprudence, Qur'anic sciences, hadith studies, Islamic law, theology, and traditional Islamic methodology.

Professional Leadership and Institutional Development

Shaykh Ibrahim Osi-Efa is one of the founders of several significant Islamic initiatives and organizations dedicated to advancing Islamic education and community development. His founding contributions include the Ibn Abbas Institute, Starlatch Press, Badr Language Institute, and Greenville Trust.

Teaching Experience and Current Work

As a dedicated educator, Shaykh Ibrahim currently serves as a teacher at Greenville Trust, where he regularly teaches on the Micro Madrasa initiative in both Liverpool and Huddersfield. His teaching approach combines classical Islamic methodology with contemporary pedagogical practices, making Islamic knowledge accessible to diverse audiences while maintaining scholarly authenticity and rigor. Through the Micro Madrasa initiative, he works to bring quality Islamic education to local communities, fostering spiritual development and intellectual growth among students of all levels.

Areas of Expertise

His specialized knowledge encompasses classical Islamic disciplines including Islamic jurisprudence, Qur'anic sciences, hadith studies, Islamic law and legal methodology, Islamic theology, Arabic language and linguistics, and traditional Islamic education. He is skilled in transmitting classical Islamic knowledge in accessible formats while maintaining the integrity and depth of the tradition.

Personal Life

Shaykh Ibrahim Osi-Efa currently resides in Liverpool, England, with his wife and two children. His commitment to family life reflects the Islamic values he teaches and promotes within his community, demonstrating the integration of scholarly pursuits with personal and familial responsibilities.
